How Can the Capital Markets Union New Action Plan Boost Europe's Economic Recovery?18 March 2021*11.00 – 12.15*Agenda

The creation of a Capital Markets Union (CMU) has become even more important following the Covid-19 pandemic. Capital markets can help to facilitate the urgent need for recapitalisation of European companies. But this can only happen, if sound capital markets exist within the European Union. With the UK as the biggest capital market in Europe leaving the EU, efforts need to be taken to foster European capital markets. In this context, the CMU New Action Plan was released on September 2020.

In this webinar, high level representatives of the EU institutions, the issuers' community and leading public affairs consultancy firms will discuss the action points the EU Commission has laid out for the forthcoming years. A special focus will be drawn to primary and secondary equity markets in the EU and how to provide a better environment for listing of companies of different sizes.
